

DR. HOSSEIN HAKIMZADEH

Associate Professor of Computer Science, Director of Informatics
Indiana University South Bend

O: 574-520-4517 | hhakimza@iu.edu | LinkedIn Profile

Dr. Hossein Hakimzadeh is an Associate Professor of Computer Science, at Indiana University South Bend. He obtained his Ph.D. in Computer Science from North Dakota State University in 1993.

He has served as the chair of computer science, director of informatics at Indiana University South Bend, and most recently as the director of Informatics for the Collaborative BS in Informatics (a fully online degree jointly developed by six campuses of Indiana University).

His teaching interests include object-oriented programming, database systems, information representation, systems analysis and design, operating systems, and web development. His research interests include database management systems, object-oriented systems, software engineering, and web application development. To read Dr. Hakimzadeh's full bio, click here.